In recent years Ontario has seen the growth, both in number and in size, of Native organizations and associations responsive to Native needs.

Promoting Native access to government resources and services has been, and still is, a major priority of the Native Community Branch. It was decided that a general directory of these Native communities and organizations would be useful to all agencies that work with Native people.

In addition, the Ministry of Culture and Recreation has been designated by the cabinet as the lead ministry in developing an information retrieval and distribution network to increase public awareness of, and access to, available programs and activities.

Improved information access is one method to promote full, equal and responsible citizenship. This directory will assist direct communication between government and Native groups. It offers to Native and non-Native agencies an opportunity for meaningful contact and a first step towards future co-operation.

Introduction

This directory consists of three major sections: A-Z, Thematic and Geographic. The latter two sections are subdivided respectively into subjects and areas. The directory can be used as a very basic and practical guide to many Native communities and organizations in Ontario as it provides the addresses and phone numbers of Native associations, Band offices, communities with Native corporations, and institutions offering Native Studies courses or relevant training programs.

Only communities with incorporated Native organizations are listed. Individuals are not cited in the directory. Headings in the Geographic Section of the directory reflect the field areas of Native Community Branch offices. In listing individual Indian Bands, however, the federal format has been used, and the federal district office through which each is administered has been noted.

This directory is the first such resource publication produced by the Native Community Branch, and errors and omissions undoubtedly exist. Agencies should feel free to bring any errors to the attention of the branch. Since addresses change regularly it is the branch's intention to update the directory every two years.

Special thanks are due to the many co-operative groups and individuals who offered their assistance in researching and preparing this first edition.

Native Community Branch

The Native Community Branch is a consultative agency which works with Native communities and organizations. The branch's goal is to assist those communities and organizations in their efforts to encourage Native self reliance and participation in the life of the province. In promoting this goal, the branch has identified the following objectives.

- To support Native heritage preservation and cultural continuity;
- To promote the development of human resources and leadership in the Native community;
- To assist Native communities in socio-economic development;
- To facilitate direct Native access to government services and resources.

Programs of the branch include consultative assistance, research and information bank, publications, policy advisory services, and grants.

Consultative assistance to Native communities

Help through consultation is provided to Metis communities, Friendship Centres, the Native Women's Association, Indian Bands, Native cultural and communications groups and other local Native groups by the branch's Community Resource Officers throughout Ontario. Provincial Native organizations have recourse to Toronto consultants. Consultation services include:

- assisting Native communities in identifying local problems and in developing appropriate projects or programs;
- advising Native communities and organizations of services or programs which could help their development, and assisting them in securing resources necessary to conduct community development projects;
- linking up Native communities and organizations with the appropriate provincial ministries and agencies, and obtaining the services of specialists available from these ministries when required;
- providing assistance to Native leaders on the preparation and submission of proposals to government, and advising how to evaluate existing and new projects.

Advisory Services on programs and policies affecting Native People are provided to provincial ministries and agencies to facilitate direct communication between Native People and government. The Native Community Branch bases its advice on its unique field presence among, and familiarity with, Native communities and organizations.

Grants are utilized as a developmental tool in assisting Native-initiated cultural, socio-economic or leadership projects.

A research and information bank, and publications, are currently being developed to facilitate the availability of basic information on Native communities in Ontario.

Staff are located in ten field offices across Ontario and in Toronto. The local Community Resource Officers work directly with local Native organizations. Staff in Toronto provide support to the field, work directly with provincial organizations and liaise with provincial ministries and agencies. Toronto staff consists of the Director of the Native Community Branch, a Community Resource Officer, and five specialized consultants - a Senior Consultant, a Government Resource Consultant, a Culture Consultant, a Provincial Organizational Consultant, and a Social Development Consultant.
